EDITORIAL

As we begin our Easter celebrations we welcome you to the April 2007 issue of Magna in which we hope you will find many articles to interest and entertain. Among this month's varied mix you will find Rowan Williams's presidential address to the General Synod, a history of the scouting movement, the 4th Commandment and some very strange and ghostly occurrences! Also, we invite you to come along and be involved in our forthcoming APCM. What is it? Turn to page 5 for the revelation!

CONGRATULATIONS ROSEMARY

Rosemary Abernethy has received a national Butler Trust Award from HRH The Princess Royal for her exceptional commitment and expertise in work with foreign national offenders which has earned her and a colleague a national reputation. Their continuing work as practitioners has shaped the training courses which they have designed and implemented. The consultancy which they provide to criminal justice professionals and embassy staff and their determination to promote good foreign national practice in the context of negative political and media focus are commendable. They have contributed to national policy and to the recent inspectorate thematic report on foreign national prisoners. WELL DONE.
