

'Out of Many, One People'

is the national motto of Jamaica. It also makes a great motto for churches, emphasising both celebration and aspiration.

It is the title of the service to mark Racial Justice Sunday, on 12th September, 2010. The service will be at St Andrews church, Harrow Road, Sudbury at 6pm. It has been planned by the Area Group for Racial Concerns, and aims to both celebrate the diversity found in our churches and communities, and offer ourselves to overcome barriers and strengthen our unity.

We are delighted to have as our preacher Linbert Spencer. (pictured) Born in Jamaica, he grew up in Harlesden, and is a member of the Salvation Army.

He is author of 'Building a Multi-Ethnic Church' (SPCK). He works as a consultant specialising in diversity & inclusion, leadership, performance management and personal development.

He is a former professional actor - stage, screen and television; international athlete - competed for Great Britain in the decathlon; and television presenter - co-presented the first two series of the Open College's one-hour live magazine programme on national television in the United Kingdom.

Members of churches from different parts of the area will be sharing their stories, singing and leading prayers. Whether churches have large, small or no evening service we hope they will be able to come together to make this an inspiring occasion for the whole of Willesden Episcopal Area.
